

Local Politics Matter

Do They Deserve Our Trust

Will They Vote For Trump Again

As we move closer and closer to the midterm elections there is a drumbeat that continues to get louder and louder. The drumbeat is banging out a familiar refrain. That refrain deals with the importance of the vote that will be cast by white suburban women. Yes, the same group who helped to shift the tide for Donald J. Trump by being a part of the 53% of white woman who (according to 2016 Presidential exit polls) voted in his favor. Now I am hearing that these suburban women are starting to move away from Trump. According to news reports the last straw for these voters was the separation of families at the southern border. Really!! So calling Mexicans rapists and drug dealers wasn't enough. Nor was bragging about grabbing women by the "Pussy" whenever he felt the urge. Now these white suburban women have a conscience? Now we are supposed to trust that they will do the right thing under the cover of the ballot box? I don't think so! One thing that I have observed during my time working in corporate America is that "White Women" will defend "White Men" until the end. I have been in environments where you had an obviously incompetent white man in a position of authority but you would not know it if you asked any of the white women working in close proximity. They have a real interesting way of deflecting the truth in those situations or actually covering up the incompetence. For me, I learned my lesson early. I do not and will not depend on their vote and I hope that the Democratic Party as a whole is not listening to the pundits and getting overly enthused about the potential shift in the votes being cast by "White Suburban Women". They will always stand by their man.
