Another One Bites The Dust

Well, who would have believed it? Believed that our decorated General John Kelly is stuck in the 50's. Just look at the recent record of his actions. Remember Congresswoman Fredica Wilson the one he called an empty barrel. His now famous quote about the "lazy immigrants," and now, he's the protector of the domestic violator, Rob Porter. When General Kelly was first appointed as the Chief of Staff for the president. I believed the hype. I believed that he would bring stability to the juvenile inexperienced and naive presidency of Donald J Trump. His quiet demeanor is scary. Why did the General ignore the FBI reports? Why does the General allow staff members to work without the required security clearance, the mandatory documentation necessary to carry out the responsibilities of the job? We should look into his tenure and leadership while serving in the military. How much did he cover up for violators under his command? Do we have military victims that he silenced? You can't make this stuff up. This presidency is so full of scandal that it is as exciting as, or better than the namesake television program ..."Scandal". You know the one with Olivia Pope. I'll bet she would not have let this happen, and if it did happen we would have never found out. General Kelly is failing at his job and the public can see straight through to his soul. He clearly has a distaste for people of color, women and immigrants. He is definitely in line with the President, whom in my opinion has proved himself as a racist, misogynist and bigot on more than one occasion. We need to dig deeper into the history of General Kelly. There may be more to the General than we can't see right now. Whatever happened to honor and glory, the military mottos and honesty. Well, when you work for the Donald I guess you forget all those things, but tomorrow is coming, just wait. What did President Trump promise the General that would mark his whole career as suspicious? How would it profit the General, to have the world and loose his soul, or maybe, we're seeing his soul?
