Weapons of Mass Destruction

Win at any Cost

I don't know about you, but when I tune into the news, there's always another report of how Donald Trump used various entities to help him overcome deficits and win the election from Hilary Clinton. I'm not trying to be a sore loser but, go figure. Take Cambridge Analytica, the organization that tracks citizens' behaviors to target certain groups and advertise exclusively to them to gain the edge and win their vote. The Russians, although they have denied their participation a hundred times, invited themselves into the election to help Donald Trump win. Roger Stone, Paul Manafort, Michael Flynn, Michael Cohen, the GOP, and of course don't forget the big one, The National Enquirer. They were all used as weapons. When you add it all up, the Trump team cheated. His children were soldiers in the act of war against Hillary. Don, Jr. lied to Congress about his meeting in Trump Tower with the so called Russian Lawyer. So much deception. The Trump organization used many, many weapons against the American people, the government of the United States and Hillary Clinton. Unfortunately, it worked, and Donald Trump won. I truly believe in my heart that the election was stolen. There were so many weapons aimed at the American people that I'm sure it swayed some of their votes. How can we prove it? We probably never will. But I feel certain that some minds were changed because of something they read on the internet, or some exacerbated facts they heard or saw on a news broadcast, or something that was produced by those fraudulent Russian accounts. Millions of voters were targeted. We'll never know how many of them changed their voter preference. I'll say it again. I'm convinced that the election was stolen. The Clinton email scandal, shucks that's small potatoes considering what we're dealing with now. Yeah, I'm still suffering after all these days, months, years. It's just not fair. Maybe we've all learned a lesson or two. We'll be on guard in 2020 and that's a fact.
